Project Prattville is entering the closing stages of the study process. After completing the Inventory and Assessment Report (available at www.projectprattville.com under "Documents/Downloads"), the effort turned toward Plan development. This phase kicked off on February 23rd with the Prattville Compass. This graphic survey was designed to help the citizens of Prattville identify development types that they felt best represented their views of the future of their City.

Informed by the Compass results and the recently completed Market Assessment (available at www.projectprattville.com under "Documents/Downloads"), Project Prattville focused even further on designs and ideas for specific areas. At a public workshop on May 12, 2009, Prattville residents were asked a series of questions: What areas are likely to develop, and what areas are desirable to develop? What transportation improvements would have the greatest impact, and what are their priorities? Where new public amenities are needed and how would they be connected to the surrounding community? How will the Prattville of 2030 be different from the Prattville of today? How will it be the same? Thank you to the many residents that attended the May 12 workshop. Your ideas and opinions are invaluable as we enter these final stages of Project Prattville.

Over the next month or two, our project consultants and city staff are formulating draft plans based on information gathered over the last nine months. A draft of the final plan will be posted at www.projectprattville.com and other locations in late August seeking citizen review and comment. A Plan Review/Implementation Workshop will be held on August 24, 2009 to formally present the plan strategies and receive additional public comment. As always, the key to the success of Project Prattville remains you. Make plans to attend the August 24 workshop, and help spread the word. Check this site often, and sign up for e-mail alerts to help keep you up to date. Come be a part of Prattville's Future!
